1839?

Dear Deborah

You must not suppose that it is entirely laziness which has kept me from writing to you for I have been alone here, with Henry, as cross as a bear. Cordoline thinks she shall arrange matters so that I shall go to Roxbury this summer

I am very impatient for you to come home be sure you come at the time of the Convention I shall try to be there. Lucretia has given up all thoughts of coming home with the Benimans and Francis thinks of going on for her

I want you to give me your embroidered cantrick slate coloured gown

I am to be made instrumental in working for the Mass Fair this summer at Roxbury ;

The Collets are going off very well here .30 copies are taken the abolish-ionist has no ground here at all Mr Perkins is allowed to lay in the Post office from ones weekend to another,

You have not done much better by me than I by you . you must write to me the first chance every yes Emma
